

It is hard to believe it has been over 3 months since we last saw. Life has been hard to get used to without you guys there. I miss her so much.

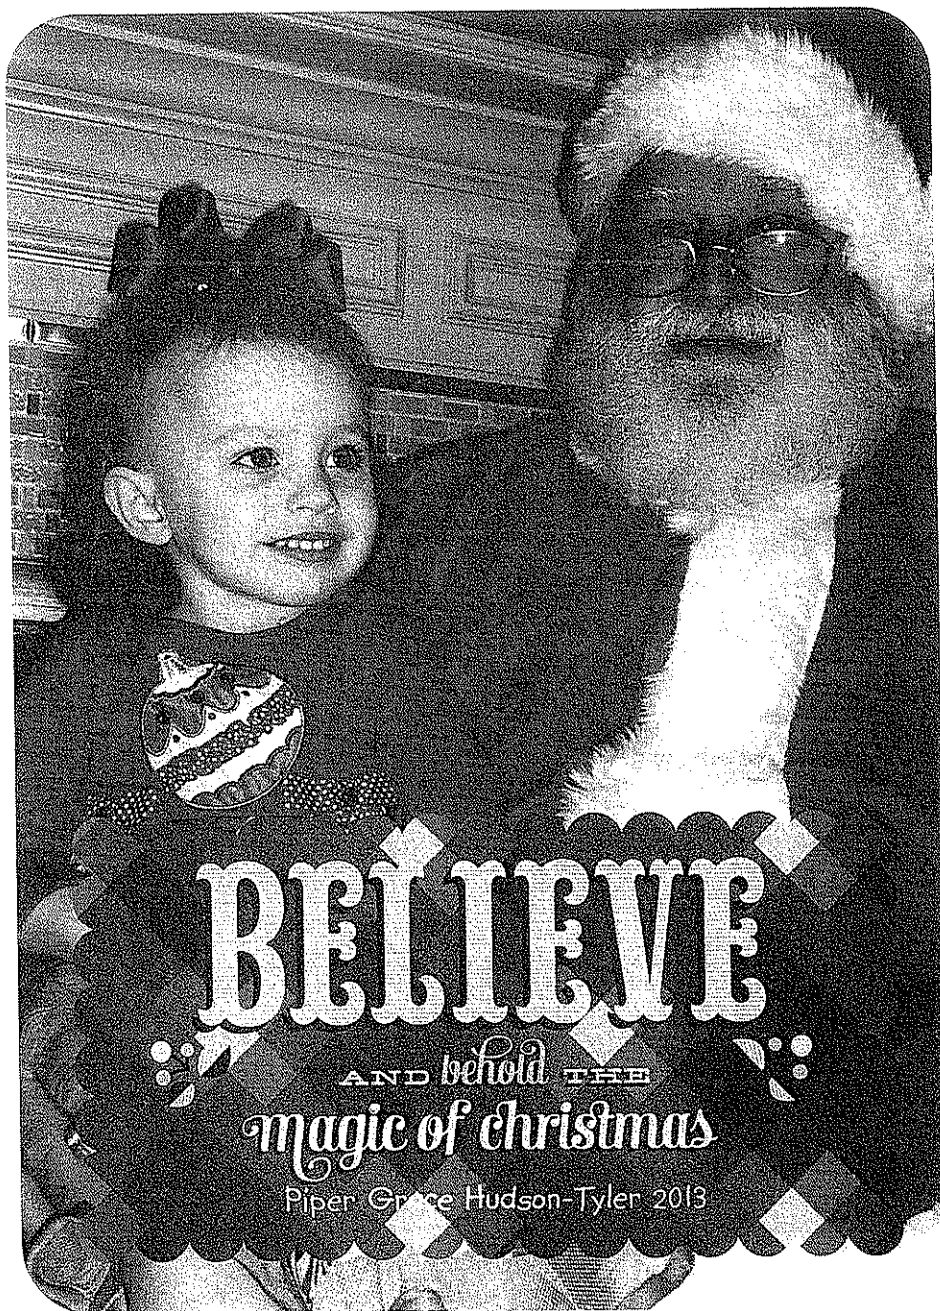

Pap moved back to his house and Piper has had a hard time with that. "Where Pap?" Broke my heart. No more getting him the paper or watching Price is Right. That adjustment has been hard on her, but she is finally starting to understand. We see him often.

You guys have no idea the impact you have had on me and the rest of the family. I miss seeing y'all. I learned so much about how to love someone to their death and the ability to make death beautiful. As an ER nurse, it is hard to change that thinking.

Pap enjoyed the Panama Canal cruise, so he says. And he has been busy getting back into church. Not much has changed between my mom and I but we meet for her to see Piper on Tuesdays. At least it is a start.

Anyway, Piper has turned 2. Can y'all believe she wasn't even walking when we met. She is talking up a storm and fascinated with the moon. She is even singing.

Just wanted to say thank you for what and all you do and Merry Christmas.
Love, Maggie
